

National Association for Holistic Aromatherapy

Writer Guidelines and Article Submission Requirements 2017-2018

This document includes the NAHA guidelines and steps for submitting an article for NAHA's Aromatherapy Journal

The National Association for Holistic Aromatherapy

E-mail: info@naha.org

Chief Editor: Sharon Falsetto

Journal Manager and Assistant Editor: Kelly Holland Azzaro

These guidelines were updated by Sharon Falsetto December 2016

The NAHA Aromatherapy Journal

Themes of the NAHA Aromatherapy Journal

For the next two years we will be continuing to feature seasonal themes which includes the actual seasons (Spring, Summer, Autumn, and Winter), the seasons of life (infancy, childhood, adolescents, adulthood, aging, the elderly, end of life) and seasons of an illness (early stages, middle stages, end stages).

Articles about common conditions that arise during a given season, preventative health before a season arrives, and other pertinent information are also included in this concept. Articles about other topics (not related to the seasons) will be woven into each journal as well.

NAHA article and topics may include but are not limited to:

- Aromatherapy applications and uses.
- Essential oil and carrier oil profiles.
- Herbs and how they can be integrated into practice/life.
- Ayurveda and Traditional Chinese Medicine.
- Expanding an aromatherapist's practice, approach and understanding of essential oils.
- Research and case studies.
- Aromatherapy for children.
- Aromatherapy in the news.
- Research reports.
- Safety data and essential oil chemistry.
- Endangered and threatened botanical species.
- Reports and updates.
- The profession of aromatherapy – how aromatherapy is used by professionals.
- Aromatherapy education – educators and schools sharing their knowledge.
- Essential oil recipes and blending tips.
- The business of aromatherapy and marketing advice.
- Guest editorials.
- How to make aromatic remedies and/or skin care products.
- Special focus on specific topic editions and much more!

NAHA JOURNAL ARTICLE SUBMISSION REQUIREMENTS CHECKLIST:

The Article

- You are an aromatherapist, herbalist, or specialist in your field with sufficient education in your topic.
- Article topics should be a minimum of one, and a maximum of four, pages in length (approx. 800 - 1400 words). We accept, and encourage, longer articles based on the depth of the topic. A longer article can be broken into parts if needed, and published in consecutive issues of The Aromatherapy Journal.
- All articles must be submitted singled spaced in a WORD document format.
- Font size 12 point, Times New Roman, black ink.
- Both common names and Latin binomials of each essential oil, carrier oil, herb, etc. must be given. Include the common name in regular font and Latin binomial in italic font. For example: Lavender (Lavandula angustifolia). No abbreviations.
- The common name of all plants and essential oils should not be capitalized, except where punctuation dictates otherwise. The following sentence would be written as: "When you are picking lavender (Lavandula angustifolia) for your distillation..." Do not capitalize the word lavender in this instance.
- In addition, all plant and essential oil common names should not be capitalized in recipe and blend lists. Therefore, you would list a recipe or blend as follows:
"Essential Oils:
20 drops of lavender (Lavandula angustifolia)
15 drops of rosemary (Rosmarinus officinalis)" and so on.
- Do not include any endangered species unless the article is specific to that topic. Agarwood (Aquilaria malaccensis), Frankincense (Boswellia carteri), Rosewood (Aniba roseodora), Sandalwood (Santalum album) are some of these endangered species.
- If you include an endangered species in a blend use the more acceptable substitutions, for example: Frankincense (Boswellia sacra), Sandalwood (Santalum spicatum) or replace the endangered species with an essential oil that is similar, for example: Ho wood (Cinnamomum camphora).
- Endangered or threatened species data can be included for historical reference.
- Do not include unsafe essential oils or techniques contraindicated in true aromatherapy.
- Fact-check your data; especially historical dates and references.

References and Bibliography

- Include professional references and bibliography. Cite references using a numbered end note that appears at the end of the document.
Example: *What the researchers discovered was, “at doses of 40, 20, and 10 µg/cm<sup>2</sup>, the essential oils of P. graveolens gave 100% mortality against house dust mites.”<sup>1</sup>*
- References should be listed in the bibliography in numerical order, not alphabetical order.
For example, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 etc and not Adams, Brown, Chester etc. This makes it easier for readers to quickly find the appropriate reference in the bibliography. In the above example, the reference would be listed as:
1. Jeon, Ju-Hyun, Hyung-Wook Kim, Min-Gi Kim, and Hoi-Seon Lee; (2008), Mite Control Activities of Active Constituents Isolated from Pelargonium graveolens Against House Dust Mite; Journal of Microbiology and Biotechnology, 18 (10), 1666-1671.
- Referencing websites: There are various ways to list websites in a bibliography listing but the following format is preferred:
National Association for Holistic Aromatherapy website (Name of Website), Aromatherapy (Article Title), accessed August 1, 2015: <http://www.naha.org>.
All links should be clickable so that readers can easily access the reference in the final PDF journal document.

Photos/Illustrations

- All artwork should be in the form of professional quality photographs or illustrations.
- Do not embed any images into the article.
- All images should be sent separately and be 300 to 600 dpi.
- For Book Reviews: Book cover images need to be 3.5 inches wide x 4.75 inches tall @ 300 DPI (in pixels, that's 1050x1425).
- Ensure that you have permission to use any and all images in your article.
- Submit information on the photographer including attribution (copyright) and contact details.

Editing

- Although all articles will be edited by the NAHA Aromatherapy Journal editing team, we highly recommend you have your article reviewed and edited prior to submitting it. Your article should be as close to “print-ready” as possible. If substantial edits need to be made, your article will be returned to request a rewrite.
- Do not embed any hyperlinks or website links into text.
- Do have the article spell-checked and pre-edited.
- Do not depend on spell check for complete editing...a word spelled correctly may not be the correct word.
- Do not include the wording “to treat” or “treatment” unless that falls within your scope of practice.
- Do not use the word “patient” unless that falls within your scope of practice. Use the word “client.”
- Do not include the words “therapeutic grade” when describing the quality of essential oils.
- International submissions: Your article must meet English language requirements. Please spell-check your article for correct English terminology and spelling.

Biography Information

- Include a brief professional biography at the end of the article (50-100 words maximum).
- Include your contact information at the end of your biography. Only include your email address and website address. Do not add a phone number, Facebook, LinkedIn, Pinterest, etc. link.
- Include a headshot image in a JPEG (300dpi) high resolution quality.

If you have not followed the above guidelines your article will be returned to you and you will be asked to make the necessary edits/corrections.

Submitting Your Article

Please submit your article and images to NAHA's Journal Chief Editor:
Sharon Falsetto at: sharon@sedonaaromatherapie.com

Payment for Articles

NAHA offers the following forms of compensation for articles submitted, accepted, and published in the NAHA Journal:

- Individuals who write one article will receive one free quarter page advertisement in the issue which your article appears in. You are responsible for creating the advertisement and submitting it to NAHA for publication.
- Individuals who commit to being a regular contributor and who write four high quality, and well written articles will receive one free half page advertisement in each journal that your article appears in. You are responsible for creating the advertisement and submitting it to NAHA for publication.

All writers also receive:

- Inclusion of your biography, photo, , website (with hyperlink) in your article.
- A free PDF copy of the journal in which your article is published.
- Aromatherapy articles that are published count towards the Aromatherapy Registration Council (ARC) renewal hours for the status of registered aromatherapist (RA).
- An excellent opportunity to get your talents and expertise noticed in the aromatherapy community and around the world.

Publication Dates and Deadlines

Please note the following publication dates and deadlines for 2017 through 2018:

- Spring Journal – articles due by February 1 for a publication date of April 1.
- Summer Journal – articles due by May 1 for a publication date of July 1.
- Autumn Journal – articles due by August 1 for a publication date of October 1.*
- Winter Journal – articles due by October 15 for a publication date during the month of December.*

Note: Although we will try to adhere to this schedule wherever possible, there might be circumstances which may change these dates. We will notify both writers and members if this should occur for any reason.

**During a conference year, it is possible that these journal issues may be delayed due to the inclusion of conference material. The next conference year is scheduled for 2018.*

General Policy on Article Submission

Article submissions sent to NAHA are not guaranteed to be published. All information is subject to the NAHA Board of Directors approval. All articles and data are subject to editing by the NAHA Editorial Board. Authors of articles are not promised that their submission will be included in any specific journal.

All articles, data, and images are kept on file at the NAHA office and by the NAHA Editorial Board. You will be notified if your article will be considered for a future NAHA journal issue. It is the responsibility of the author to provide proof of any copyright materials included with all submissions. If your article is included in a NAHA journal, NAHA retains permission and rights to use the material for future publications and educational purposes.

If your submission does not follow the NAHA Writer Guidelines, your document will be returned for corrections. This can alter the publication process and delay use of your article or materials.

Copyright

NAHA asks for first rights of publication for your article. Each individual author will maintain copyright over their own article and you are free to use it on your own blog or website thirty days after it has appeared in the NAHA Journal. All accepted articles might be posted to NAHA's blog at any time.

If you do use and/or adapt your original article elsewhere after 30 days, please include the following statement for publication with your article:

“This article originally appeared in the NAHA Journal (insert edition number here) and it is re-published here according to the NAHA Writer Guidelines 2017-18 copyright statement. “

Right to Change or Cancel

NAHA reserves the right to change or cancel any of the requirements, discounts, or benefits, or any other detail of this document at any time with proper notice to the author.

Questions?

For article submissions, writer inquiries, article ideas, and questions about the Writer Guidelines, contact Sharon Falsetto, the Chief Editor of NAHA Journal at: sharon@sedonaaromatherapie.com

For general inquiries contact the NAHA office at: info@naha.org

Thank you for your support of NAHA!